The science of Vasthu. The art of life.

The wisdom of the ancients embraces contemporary urban design concepts at the Fortius Waterscape.

The project is 100% Vasthu compliant - a first for contemporary housing in India. The elemental harmony channelizes the unobstructed flow of positive energies and enhances well-being.

As science evolves, increasing evidence for the science of Vasthu continues to unravel the positive benefits that it can bring to everyday life.

Scientific evidence that backs Vasthu principles

Vastushastra is an ancient belief-system that offers instructions and guidelines on how to create buildings and live in harmony with the earth. Outlined below is emerging scientific evidence that lends credence to Vasthu beliefs.

Vasthu principle: Vasthu believes orientations can effect a positive change. For instance, North, North-East corner, East and the center indicate positive benefits.

Scientific evidence:

Research has confirmed the ancient understanding that the brain is sensitive to orientation. The firing rate of specific neurons in the brain has been observed to change with direction. When one is facing East, the brain physiology functions differently than when facing North, South or West.

Neuro-science also reveals that the Sun, Moon and the planets are co-related to the different parts of the brain. This cosmic alignment is reflected in the Vasthu concept of orienting buildings towards the East to gain from the rising Sun.

The Earth's rotation around the sun is inclined 23.5 degrees North-East. This forward tilt represents a positive inclination.

Homes at the Waterscape are designed to be in harmony with these principles. For instance, kitchens are not tucked away in a dark corner as it is the case with most apartments. Kitchens here face East and gain from the positive, health benefits of sun light. Likewise, master bedrooms are positioned in the South-West corner as harmful rays recede by nightfall while the orientation channelizes positive energy for prosperity.

Vasthu principle: The positive benefits of the Sun's rays

Scientific evidence:

99% of sunrays contain visible light and the remaining are ultraviolet rays, infrared rays, etc. The position of the sun in the sky has a bearing on the dispersion of rays.

In the early hours, the intensity of infrared rays are both less and beneficial. They help kill bacteria and germs. Hence, water stored in the East, North or North-East sunlight benefits from the germicidal properties of the rays.

From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., ultraviolet rays are at their highest. Vasthu suggests closure of the West and South directions, in order to safeguard occupants from the detrimental effects of ultraviolet rays and the intense heat from infrared rays.

The indoors have a muse: The outdoors

Fortius Waterscape is a contemporary, sustainable project designed taking into account lifestyle and environmental concerns.

The planning recognizes the importance of indoor and outdoor relationship. As much as 80% of the land area is reserved for open spaces and verdure. Space transcends 4 walls, with open spaces on 3 sides. The lake flows through the design expression, with fluid, expansive spaces and ample ventilation that help keep the spaces inside cooler while reducing energy costs.
